

Leadership & Executive Coaching (Executive Innovations):

This is about you as a leader in business. I believe there is a leader in all of us. What shadow are you casting today, and how do you want it to be? See Google's TOP 8 qualities for good managers "Project Oxygen"

Today's organizations and systems require leadership, empathy, humility and agility. It's not just about your organization moving to Agile, it's about a shift in mind-set needed by all to be successful. This coaching is about giving you the space to think about how you show up, what's important and how to focus on value.

Front Line/First Level Managers: If you're facing any of the following, coaching is one of the top three options to help you address the demands of your ever-changing workplace. "The front line produces the bottom line" - S. Covey
